The Coalition has 29 active members that actively participate to the Coalition's meetings and work plan and meet once a month to discuss its advancements. See Annex for the full list of members.

OUR OBJECTIVES

To create a global and strategic community of practice for multilateral, regional, national and subnational public development banks based on their mandate to finance subnational urban development.

KEY MESSAGES

- One of the main reason underlying the fact that local territories are at the core of the 2030 SDGs agenda is that in many countries, cities and regions have expertise in most of the policy areas underpinning the SDGs, such as water, housing, transport, infrastructure, spatial planning or climate change.
- Unlocking financing for an urban and territorial resilient development is a prerequisite to addressing the impacts of climate change on local governments regarding their financial and their economic territorial ecosystems, in line with Paris Agreement goals and the SDGs.
- PDBs play a crucial role in financing urban development. Their counter-cyclical role helps sustain investment, innovation, job creation and growth in the long periods when private lending falls or, dries up.

MAIN ACHIEVEMENTS

- The Coalition has agreed on the Coalition's Action Plan and the governance framework, which is still being finalized.
- The Coalition co-organized a workshop on "Financing and de-risking tools for sustainable infrastructure projects in Cities and Regions" in collaboration with IDB, AFD, ALIDE, FMDV, the Alliances of SDBs in Africa and Latin America & the Caribbean during the fourth edition of the FICS Summit in Cartagena, Colombia.
- The Coalition organized an Implementation Lab event at COP27 on "The imperative for Subnational Climate Financing", organized under the framework of the Marrakech Partnership for Global Climate Action (MPGCA) and the High-Level Champions for the Global Center for Adaptation (GCA)'s coordinated events.
- The Coalition is working on a mapping of technical and financial tools, mechanisms and services provided by members of the Resilient Cities and Regions Coalition in the field of financing sustainable and resilient urban transition and development.

ROADMAP 2024

- The Coalition will organize a workshop on "Accelerating public and private investment in sustainable and resilient urban infrastructure" in November 2023.
- The Coalition will enter Phase II of the mapping of the funds and tools and mechanisms provided by PDBs to support resilient urban development and transition.
- The Coalition aims to participate in international events to advocate for the solutions provided by PDBs to finance urban resilient development and transition and feed into the debates regarding the need for systemic architecture to finance the subnational level of action.
